

From Chaos Emerges Collaboration

By eARTh Studio: Diane Relf, Dave Angle, and Michael Collver

Artist Statement:

The three of us see this piece as representing the environmental and political chaos splitting the earth in two, as ice melts, water rise, plastic finds its way into the air we breath, the water we drink, and food we eat, floods and fires consume cities and forests alike. But it offers the hope that all the peoples of the world will work together to find ways to have a greener more sustainable earth emerge from current chaos.
